at its master's command, are posi-tively staggering. Mr. DeCamo claims, in fact that "the power of speech is the only function lacking" in his canine pet. There is nothing, indeed, that the dog does not seem able to do—except speak. It obeys its master's most carelessly uttered com-mand with an astonishing promptness and fixidity of purpose. The Triangle feature is Wilfred Lucas and Elda Miller in The Food Gamblers, a five part story of how a clever woman re-porter upsets the schemes of a cor-rupt political ring to control the price of food. His Perfect Day is the com-edy to complete the show.

The war has denied many who love old country. Ireland of today is famed as one of the beauty spots of the world. Its quaint taverns are among the more famous sights for which the Emerald famous sights for which the Emerald Isle is famous. One of these interesting buildings is used as a background for one of the scenes in Peggy, the Will o' the Wisp, the Metro wonderplay written by Katherine Kavanaugh, directed by Tod Browning, in which Mabel Taliaterro wil, be seen at the Breed theatre today and tonight. The scene was designed by Rotert Farrell, an Irish artist, who was injured at Verdun and who has an honorable displayer from the allie i army. The tavharge from the allie i army. The tavern as p.ctured in the Metro wonderlay is an exact duplicate of one in the County Galway in Ireland, and all of the actors who appear in the scene were born in the old country. Naggaransett Park Speedway.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 11.—A mili-tary touch has been added to the programme of speed at the Narragan-sett Park Speedway next Saturday for the management announces that on that day, Philip D. Rader, chief pilot of the Gaudallet Aviation School of East Greenwich, where aviators are being trained for the government, will fly from the school to Narraill fly from the school to Narra-ansett Park, arriving at the track at and remaining there until the of the last event, the 100-mile classic, before starting on the return trip back to the school. Mr. Rader will pilot a standard military tractor, the kind that is being used by the United States army on the French tront and the kind that has been or-

Much interest is centered in the big race on the work of Jim Meyers, the local speed boy, who will pilot a Pugh Special, and who is being touted by his many friends as being one of the real contenders for money and honors Saturday siternoon. Meyers made his professional debut two years ago at Narragansett Park, finishing sixth while driving a National special. Since that time he has kept at the auto racing game and now is a full fledged pilot, as his victory at Uniontown, Pa, on Labor Day, when he finished in second place, will show. Last year he drove a Pugh Special in the Astor Cup Race at Sheepshead Bay and in October of the same year finished in 11th place in the Harkness Trophy Race.

Starter Wagner is expected to arrive in this city today with his electrical timing machine and will go out to the track tomorrow to see that everything is in first class shape for the big events. Tickets are going fast for the races and from indicaace on the work of Jim Meyers, the

DAVIS THEATRE

New Show Today—Three Big Keith Vaudeville Acts and Triangle Feature Photoplays.

There will be an entire change of programme at the Davis today and the big attraction for the last half of the week is Somewhere in France, a scenic vocal offering which comes direct from the larger Keith theatres in A Glimpse of Actual Life Over There. This is an act that has caused a lot of favorable comment by the newspaper critics and they will be just as big a hit here as they have all over the circuit. The next act is Norwood and White, a clever comedy team, who sing, dance and tell stories. The third act is Charles DeCamo and his dogs, Cora the mental marvel, assisted by Hand Stand. Cora is a bright, intelligent looking fox-terrier and the tricks it performs, without a falter, at its master's command, are positively staggering. Mr. DeCamo

Michael Brown of Baltic and James Donovan of Providence, narrowly es-caped serious injury Wednesday after-noon about 2 o'clock while driving through Railroad street in Mr. Brown's through Railroad street in Mr. Brown's carriage. Brown was driving his trotting horse at a fast clip when the shackle and bolt on the shafts gave way, letting the shafts against the trotter's legs. The horse started on a gallop and the tea mswayed to either side of the road. Brown tried hard to bring the animal to a stop. As the horse approached the Shannon building he gave a quick turn and tinned ing he gave a quick turn and tipped the carriage upside down, pinning the occupants to the ground. Men nearby ran to the men's assistance. Brown received a scalp wound, a sprained ankle and wrist. Donovan's injuries consisted of a bruised shoulder and a consisted of a bruised shoulder and a few minor bruises. After upsetting the wagon the horse ran to Brown's stable. Just a boy who answered when he heard his country call;
(Somewhere, Out There, he is—how my thoughts go winging!)

Ready to do or dare,
(Like sunlight was his hair!)

Just a boy, a smiling boy,
Somewhere, Out There.

Idle my wheel, today, hushed is my (Ah, but his eyes were blue—blue as the sea!) omewhere, Out There, he is—losing or winning?

(Boy with the carafree heart, come back to me!)
Blood-red the cannons flare.
(God, can you hear my prayer?)
Keep him, my boy, from harm—
Somewhere, Out There.

AMERICA IN ARMS. We thought that reason had mastered

We thought that reason had mastered men,
That reace of the world was lord.
That never the roll of the drum again
Should quicken the thirsty sword.
But one bubble broke with a sudden blow
And we heard like the trumpet's din
That levelled the walls of Jericho.
The old, stern cry—"Fall in!" We were numb, amazed, we were sick and dized
With lorror past belief
Silent we stood while Belgium blazed
In her martyr's glory of grief.
Then it came so near that we needs must bear.
For the cry of our murdered kin
Drove in our heart like a searching spear

The call of the hour-"Fall in!" Not in the flush of a barren thrill

Do we come to our deed at last:
We have weighed our will, we must do our will.

For the doubting time is past.
We have faced our soul in the sleepleas night
And what shall we fear but sin.
Not for love of the fight, but for love of the right.
In the name of God—Fall in!
—Amelia J. Burr, in English Bookman.
